John, I understand. I will speak with Scarlet's oncologist to give him permission to speak with you. I'm truly sorry for any inconvenience our family may have caused. Please know that we are not wanting or asking anything from you as I have said my daughter is going to be with Jesus in the next few days nothing will save her from that. I didn't contact your wife for anything other reason then to getScarlet's letter to Jill. We didn't even ask for a response. I do understand your point of view. I guess there are bad people in the world. I didn't anticipate that scarlet would touch you the way she did. I am sorry if we gave you reason to doubt. I can't imagine someone making up something like this but then again I am not in your line of work.

John, this is my world. I had the most perfect life a wonderful husband and three beautiful children. One word derailed my life forever. My child has faught for three years. I now have to watch her die the most horrible, painful death and it is ripping me apart because I can't help her. I contacted your wife because my dying child asked for something so simple and it was something I could actually do for her.

I'm sorry I'm babbling. I'm exhausted and emotional. I will email you the contact information for her oncologist as soon as I speak with him, until then I will ask scarlet not to contact you. I will tell her you're busy. I need to protect her heart as well.

Katherine
